

NZG Nürnberger
Zinkdruckguss-Modelle GmbH

Nuremberg, 21. November 2007

Ref. Safety standards

Dear customers and collectors of NZG models,

Within the last days due to recall action of toys from some companies based in U.S.A., the safeness of models has also been put a bit into question. In the interest most of one's own we have strengthened our ambitions of safety and repeatedly checked the conformity of the used materials at our manufacturer with European standards. At none of our tests a transgression of e.g. the lead portion in the varnish or other faulty components, were stated. The tests were carried out by independent organizations without any complaints. For this reason we can claim justifiably so that our models give consideration to the high quality demands which we make on ourselves.

In future, we will be allowed to please you with high-quality scale models which comply with all safety standards, too.

Yours sincerely

M. Ludwig